WOMEN GAVE SHOW GREATEST CHARM

They Were as Much a Part of Exhibition as Prize Winners.

VERY HANDSOME GOWNS SEEN

Boxes Last Night Were Scenes of Fairylike Beauty, and the Whole Audience as Brilliant as on Any Previous Night of the Show.

Last night the curtain was rung down and the lights put out. The October show of 1902 is now a pleasure in retrospect and a brilliant success, of which the officers of the Horse Show Association may justly be proud.

Many things contributed to make it all that it was. First and foremost the the weather, which even for October was ideal. The invigorating atmosphere and the smile of the sunshine put every body into a laughing humor, and in-clined hearts to optimism, investing everything for young and old with their own reflected pleasure, proving the truth of the old adage: "Approach the world with a smile, and it will smile back at

Then the beautiful horses that were sisplayed from Richmond, from the fine stock farms in the State and out of it. and the several notable entries from New York and Philadelphia, casily awakened the enthusiasm of a commu-nity where horses have nearly always been second only to women in the estimate put upon perfection of form and

Many or the riders, male and female, have a large quota of friends in Rich-mond who felt keenly everything that concerned them and their mounts, and who watched with close attention all that concerned both from the moment of entrance into the ring.

This imparted an element of individnality to the Richmond Horse Show which gave it a distinctiveness lacking. perhaps, in the shows of larger cities. And after all the pretty their pretty gowns, with their delicacy, their grace and refinement, gave the show its greatest charm. They lined the boxes Tuesday night, and cheered their lavorites heartily, their smiles proving large consolation for any disappointed competitor, who went straight to their side in the hour of defeat and learned over a lesson of their childish years, "Try, try again."

The Horse Show has emphasized the favoritism and the reign of white in the world of style. White of every ma-terial, made up in every conceivable way of prettiness, white cloth, white chiffen, white etamine louisine and meusseline was worn greatly in excess of everything else, the lovely results produced bringing about the realization that women always look well in white After the first two nights, blue, gray, violet, yellow and poppy red tones thowed here and there, producing a blended effect that brightened and heightened the effect of the lights, the music, the crowd and the ring.

Horse Show flowers, primarily, were

American beauties, white chrysanthe-mums, pink and white carnations and violets. The violets were worn as corand chrysanthemums adorned the railing of the boxes, where their owners placed them with care and served during the exhibition the purpose of box decopitality given and received. A large proportion of Richmond people have had their out-of-town friends as guests, and suppers, dinners and lunches in their honor have added to the general air of festivity. These suppers and dinners were, many of them, given at the Jefferson Hotel, which was a center of brightgress until a very late hour every night.

Mrs. Carter Scott, Mrs. Horace Hawes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Scott Parrish, Misses Shields, Morgan, Urquhart, Hunt-er, Brander, Bodeker, Buford, Camm, Donnan, Mrs. Young, of New York; Mrs. Carter Scott and scores of others have been among the number of those who have had friends staying with them durates the transfer of the second staying with them durates the transfer of the second staying with them durates the second staying with them durates the second staying staying the second staying st

McPhall, the Misses Shields, Mrs. Taliaferro and others are among the entertainers at lunches, dinners and suppers to box and other visitors.

Mrs. Montague and the Governor walked into the box put at their disposal last night as fresh and bright as and returned. They held quite a little levee, a number of friends gathering around the box to speak to the Gov-ernor and congratulate his wife. Mrs. Montague had on her silk evening wrap over her pretty frock of appliqued net, worn with a picture hat. Miss Annie C. Berkeley, who accompanied her, was in white, with a blue hat, and little Miss Gay Montague was in white over pink.

In Mr. William Habliston's box party were Miss Ida Riley, of Washington; Miss Anna Deane Carr, Miss Bessie Lee. of Alexandria; Mr. Brooks and Mr. Young. Miss Riley was in pink louisine, with trimming of Irish point lace and a pink hat. She had a huge bunch red carnations. Miss Bessie Lee's gown was white creps de chine and her car-nations were pink. Miss Bayard were blue mousseline and had crush roses on a very pretty hat.

Mrs. Bland Spotswood Smith was in the box with Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Jones. She wore a combination gown of blue and black. Her boa was of black and white chiffon, and her hat of blue panne velvet was bordered with fur.

Mrs. Philip Ruxton, of New York, had on dark blue etamine and a velvet hat with a wreath of dark green velvet Mrs. Perrin was in a black net appliqued with jet and trimmed with Duchesse lace. Her hat had a long, white ostrich plume.

etamine over silk of the same shade. Her bodice was trimmed in lace, and artisti-cally finished in turquoise blue. Her hat was of black lace.

Miss Edith Ellett Jones had on poppy-colored liberty silk gown, a black hat and long black suede gloves, a very effective costume.

Mrs. James D. Patton's guests were Mrs. Woodward, Miss Nannie Leary Patton, Miss Nora Leary and several gentle-men. Mrs. Patton wore black. Mrs. Woodward was handsomely attired in black and white; Miss Patton in white and blue, and Miss Leary in black net embroidered, and the design outlined in jet, with a black panne chiffon hat.

Miss Mary Ashley Bell was very noticeable among the box occupants, wearing a white canvass cloth a long white coat and a white hat and boa.

Mrs. Egbert Leigh had on nale blue chiffon, with inserted lace medalions and a blue hat with forget-me-nots.

Mrs. Herbert Funsten were pale gray chiffen, with a big bunch of violets at her corsage, a black and white boa and a white panne velvet hat.

Miss Maude Morgan had on white appliqued net and a white hat and carried white roses.

Mrs. Carter Scott was in white mous-seline de soie, tucked and inserted with lace, and a big white and pold hat, Miss Hattle Ross had on whye embroidered net, long white gloves and a black

Miss Mamie Russell wore white cloth, with a black hat, and had a big bunch of violets pinned to her bodice.

Miss Blanche Morgan was in a very handsome black tollet and hat, and car ried red carnations.

Mrs Alfred S. Koch, of Philadelphia, if they had not gone to Newport News was in a combination gown of canvas cloth and cluny lace, a white feather boa, white lace hat and a black velvet coat, trimmed with ermine. Her ornaments were a diamond sunburst and a pearl

> Miss Helen B. Thalhimer wore gown of cream voile and lace, touches of cherry velvet, a biscuit colored coat bordered with ermine, and white moire hat with plumes. She had on a diamond crescent.

> Miss Florence Thalhimer was in a red crepe gown, a white hat and ruche; a red cloth coat with Irish point vandykes.

> Mrs. Isaac Thalhimer, the hostess of the box-party, was in white crepe and a black jet hat. Her jewels were diamonds.

> Mrs. A. E. Dieterick wore white silk net above satin, spangled with silver, and a big white hat. Mrs. Dieterick, who was one of the prettiest women in th boxes, was a study for an artist while her horse, "Buck," was taking his leaps, Her anxiety that he should win, and her pride in his success won the sympathy of a large circle around her.

On the principle that the last is best, it was an undeniable fact that the boxes last night presented a much more elegant appearance than on any night during the week. Whether this was because the boxes were not so crowded and the toilets had a better showing: whether it was due to the flowers which were displayed, or to the prevalence of color in costumes or whether to all of these things, the fact remained, and was altogether selfevident.

OUR HORSE SHOW CLOSES SUPERBLY

the prize was Easter, the chestnut mare, owned and ridden by Mr. Robert M. Taylor, of Baltimore. Her form was perfect and sent a thrill of excitement over the great audience, which rose in wild applause, when on the last trial the plung ing chestnut mare cleared without a tip-ple the bars at 5 feet 6 inches. This was the winning jump, as Aarmet, which fol-lowed, struck the topmost bar slightly with his knee. The red ribbon was awarded Amaret, driven by Mr. Hur-kamp, upon one of his superb performances over the high bars for which he has become famous. The spendid bay was in good form, and performed with strength and vim, which he invariably displays, when the jumps are raised, and he realizes the feat is worthy of his trial. Mr. Taylor's gray gelding, Guy Rock, which appeared with Easter on Friday night, winning in the abreast class, was awarded the third rib-bon. The gray's performance was as clean and perfect as that of the winner, but did not show in good form. In this pair, Easter and Guy Rock, Mr. Taylor owns one of the most superb hunters ever shown over the jumps in the South. The fourth went to Lady Belle, owned by Arthur H. Fulton. The jumping was begun with the bars at 4 feet 6 inches, and raised gradually to 5 feet 6 inches. Fearless, entered by W. V. Thraves, re fused three times the bars at the last height and was given the gate. Buck was soratched in this event. Before the decision was reached, the winners were shown over the timber at 5 feet 6 inches three times, making almost perfect scores each time, and affording the audience a contest the like of which had never be fore been seen in Virginia.

City Show This Week.

A number of the most attractive tries seen during the past week at the Richmond Horse Show have been booked for the Lynchburg exhibition, which opens in that city on next Wednesday night. The horses to be taken to Lynch-burg will remain in their stalls at the Auditorium to-day, but on to-morrow will be shipped to the Hill City. Among those exhibitors who have en-

GENERAL ABBOTT

(Special Diseatch to The Times.)
PETERSBURG, VA., October 12—The steam dredge "General Abbott" was successfully launched this afternoon from the shipyard of the Petersburg Iron Works Company. The big vessel was launched sideways, and glided from the stocks gracefully, without a hitch and amid the cheers of the crowd of spectators and the screams of many whistles from neighboring vessels and factories. The "General Abbott" is an factories. ### MAD FROM COCAINE

Henry E. Cunningham Fights With Ambulance Surgeon.

Mr. Henry E. Cunningham, a sign painter, giving his home as Newport news, but formerly a resident of this city, while suffering from cocaine on at an early hour this morning, conceived the idea that he was to be nobbed, and suddenly became violently insane. At the time he was in a Chinese joint on East Franklin Street, near the First Police Station, and there created consternation. That a man had gone mad at that place was 'phoned the City Hospital and Dr. Flegenhimer

He found Cunningham in a horrible state, and pleading to be locked up and protected from the imaginary mob. He was taken to the City Hospital, and on the way out, required the surgeon and attendant to control him. A scuffle en-sued in the ambulance, but at last he was landed at the hospital.

Cunningham admitted having taken coming with several others who were addicted to the habit.

Baby Crap Shooters.

The crap-shooters of the Second Police District had their "off night" last night. Two raids were made upon them, both successful, and one plifful and the other amusing in the extreme.

In the first Instance three little boys, children of respectable parents, were found in the rear of Blilley's stables on North Third Street. They were warned to quit playing craps and go away, but they would not. So the polities were notified and Officer Poitlaux we there and captured all three. The little transport of the station-house, searched is the hardest criminal would have been and tocked up in a cell. Two of the boys had sixty cents each and each was trying to "break" the other. The officers at the station-house and Patrolman Poitlaux were very tender with them and all asked that the boys names be kept out of the papers. But it was sad to see the mere babies standing up there while the big policemen went through their poekets, turning out buttons, nails and strings, such as one usually finds in little boys pockets, and then such things as cards and dice. One of the lads was balled about 1 o'clock; while the others spent the night at the station-house.

Officers of the Second Station were busy last night. After capturing fifteen negroes earlier in the right in a crup joint they made a raid on a second institution of this kind in Pink Alley about 3 o'clock this morning, in this second raid seven more young negroes were added to the number of those who will have to annear nefers the throne of justice

His daw Broken.

George Ahthey (colored) book his faw broken in a scrap with anoth night about 12 e'clock. The scrap occurred on Ecoad Street between the lifteenth and Sixteenth Streets. George was kicked in the jaw and the bone was fractured. Dr. Flegenhelmer, of the ambulance, treated him.

is Locked Up. George Wiley (colored) is as bad as his name sounds. He is locked up at the First Police-Station for cutting Anna Jackson, a negre woman, on the arm. Dr. Flegenheimer, of the ambulance, treated the woman, and officers of the First Station took George in charge and locked him up. He will be in the Police Court to-morrow morning.
